ABSTRACT

This index was developed primarily to define the industrial and occupational classification systems adopted for the 1970 Census of Population. For each category in the classification systems it presents the individual titles constituting the particular category. Approximately 19,000 industry and 23,000 occupation titles are included. These titles represent a comprehensive listing of specific industries and occupations developed historically and maintained continuously by review of census and survey schedules. The index is divided into two sections, the first listing industry categories and their component industry titles and the second listing the occupation categories and their component titles. The classification systems and codes used are explained for the 215 industrial categories and for the 417 occupational categories listed.

Classified Index of Industries and Occupations

Issued September 1971

INTRODUCTION

General

This Classified Index of Industries and Occupations was developed primarily to define the industrial and occupational classification systems adopted for the 1970 Census of Population. The Classified Index presents, for each category in the occupational and industrial classification systems, the individual titles which constitute the particular category. These titles can be considered to be a definition of their respective categories. The same titles are also presented in alphabetical order in the companion volume¹ in the set of the Bureau's industry and occupation classification publications.

The basic content of the 1970 Classified Index, like that of prior editions, is largely derived from previous editions. The Index presents approximately 19,000 industry and 23,000 occupation titles. These titles represent a comprehensive listing of specific industries and occupations developed historically and maintained continuously by review of Census and survey schedules.

The Classification Systems

When industrial and occupational information is requested in Censuses and surveys, many thousands of different descriptions will appear on the completed forms. To organize and make understandable this gathered information, a system of homogeneous groupings or classifications must be used. Homogeneous titles are grouped together to form the various categories which comprise the system. Each of these categories is assigned a 3-digit or a single alphabetic code.² The Industry and Occupation Classification Systems along with each category's number and letter code is presented starting on page VII. In this Index each title is shown in alphabetical order under the code for that category to which it is assigned. This accumulation of all the titles assigned to a category constitutes the definition of the category.

Industry Classification. The industrial classification system, as shown beginning on page VII, consists of 215 categories arranged into 14 major groups. The industry codes, which are distinct from those used for occupations, end with digits 7, 8, and 9, or one of the letters A through M. In addition to 215 industry categories shown in this Index, the 1970 census computer edit allocated the unreported cases among the major groups. Thus, the classification system includes 14 allocation categories for tabulation purposes.

The Standard Industrial Classification Manual (SIC) prepared by the Office of Management and Budget is the standard for industrial classification systems in the United States Government. The system presented here was developed within the framework of the SIC. The display of the system shows the SIC definition for each category.

¹U.S. Bureau of the Census, 1970 Census of Population Alphabetical Index of Industries and Occupations, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 1971.

²There is no classification significance attached to the letter code. It was introduced only as an aid in processing.

Occupation Classification. The occupational classification system has 417 separate categories and is grouped into 12 major groups. The listing of this system begins on page X. For occupation, the numeric codes end in digits 0-6 and the letter codes are N through Z. This system also contains 12 allocation categories. There is no government-wide standard system for occupation classification equivalent to the SIC.

Schedule Items

The following questions were used to collect industry and occupation information in the 1970 Census of Population.

All questions relate to the same job. For an employed person, the information referred to the job he held during the reference week (the week prior to completion of the schedule). If he was employed at two or more jobs, the job at which he worked the greatest number of hours during the reference week was to be reported. For experienced unemployed persons, i.e., unemployed persons who have had previous job experience and for those not in the labor force, the information referred to the last job that had been held. Although the response to question 33 is used primarily in coding industry and those found in 34 primarily for coding occupation, in certain cases, all parts are required to determine the proper code. This is explained in further detail later.

Coverage

The Index lists industry and occupation titles which have been reported in earlier censuses and surveys and covers the bulk of industry and occupation titles in the economy. Sometimes a title may not be listed in the Index. There are three main reasons for this: new industries and occupations are constantly being developed, new titles for existing industries and occupations are always arising, and some rare titles are not included in the Index.

Format of the Index

The Index is divided into two sections: the first comprises the listing of industry categories and their component industry titles; the second comprises the occupation categories and their component titles. The industry and occupation categories are shown in the same order as they appear in the classification systems. Within each category the titles are arranged alphabetically. Many titles have various abbreviations and notations following them. These are explained below. However a user will best understand the explanation if he has a copy of the companion volume in the set, the Alphabetical Index. This is so because the titles shown here were designed basically for use in the Alphabetical Index. The Alphabetical Index, presents all titles in alphabetic order and is used primarily for operational classification, i.e., coding of industry and occupation descriptions. In resorting the titles into classified order, some of the original meaning of the lines is not directly evident without reference to the Alphabetical Index.

Explanation of Industry Titles

- A. Heading—The major group title appears in large type on the top of the page. The first category appears in bold type on the top of the first column, preceded by its three digit code. Some industry and occupation categories have a letter code also. If the category has such a letter code it is in parentheses following the numeric code. For example, on page I-1 (the I stands for industry) the heading reads: "AGRICULTURE, FORESTRY, AND FISHERIES," and the first column begins: "017(A) Agriculture production" which is followed by titles which continue until about one third of the second column where the next industry category, "018 Agriculture services, except horticultural."
- B. Usual Titles—This "Agricultural services" category begins with the usual presentation of industry titles:

Aerial dusting co.
Aerial fruit spraying
Aerial seed sowing etc.

- C. Indented Titles—A second type of presentation of titles is where they are indented under a caption heading. For instance two titles in "Agricultural production" are:

Fruit
Orchard
Stocks growing

Also, under "Agricultural service," there are four titles under the heading "Fruit."

- D. "Any Not Listed Above"—On page I-2 under 027 Forestry appears the line "Naval stores, any not listed above." In order to understand the content of this line, and all similar lines, the reader must refer to the Alphabetical Index because the restriction of "any not listed above" refers to the preceding lines in that Index. For example on page I-91 of the Alphabetical Index one finds the lines:

Naval stores (mfg)
Naval stores (whsl)
Naval stores, any not listed above

Thus the last line is to be used only for entries of "Naval stores" that are not manufacturing or wholesale. Similar terminology is "Mfg, not listed above." An example of this is "Bearings, any not listed above (mfg)" found under "197 Machinery, except electrical, n.e.c."

- E. Abbreviations Following Industry Titles—The following abbreviations are used in the listing of industry titles and are considered an essential part of the title so qualified:

(Const.)—for construction
(Mfg.)—for manufacturing
(Ret.)—for retail trade
(Whsl.)—for wholesale trade
(Ext.)—for extraction (i.e., mining, etc.)

Explanation of Occupation Titles

- A. Headings—Like industry headings, major occupation group titles appear in large type at the top of the page. The first occupation category appears in bold type at the top of the first column. For example, on page O-1 (the O stands for occupation) the heading reads "PROFESSIONAL, TECHNICAL, AND KINDRED WORKERS," and the first column begins "001 Accountants."
- B. Occupation Titles—Some occupation titles are unique and can be classified without additional information. At other times, the occupation category can be determined only by taking into consideration the combination of the occupation title, the classification of the industry, and the class of worker. The same occupation title is sometimes applied to entirely different kinds of work in different industries and different classes of worker.

Occupation titles along with these relationships are illustrated below.

- C. Occupation Titles That Are Independent—Titles appearing alone indicate that any such occupation is classified into the specific category. For example, the category "001 Accountants" begins with the occupation titles:

Account auditor
Accountant
etc.

This means that any occupation return of "Account auditor" or "Accountant" is included in the category "001 Accountants."

- D. Occupation Titles With Industry and/or Class of Worker—This relationship indicates that a schedule return of the given occupation title is classified into the particular category only if its accompanying industry and/or class of worker meets the stated limitation. There are a number of types of these relationships. In all cases the occupation title is listed first followed by the relationship on its right.

These limitations appear in the following forms:

1. Title followed by a single industry code.

This indicates that the occupation title is included in the particular category only if the accompanying industry return on the schedule is covered by the given industry code. For example, the listing "Blending coordinator—377" in the category "010 Chemical engineers" means that this category includes only those occupation returns of "Blending coordinator" whose accompanying industry entry has been classified "377 Petroleum refining."

2. Title followed by a range of industry codes.

Here, the occupation title is included in the particular category only if the accompanying industry return falls within the given industry range. For example, the listing "Analyst—047-057" in the category "045 Chemists" means the occupation category "Chemists" includes only those occupations of "Analyst" whose accompanying industry falls within the industry code range 047-057.

3. Title followed by several industry codes.

In identical fashion as the industry range, the accompanying return must be covered by one of the several codes given. For example, the listing "Diet supervisor—J,839,848" in the category "074 Dietitians" means that this category includes only those occupation returns of "Diet supervisor" whose accompanying industry entry is coded either J, or 839, or 848."

4. Title followed by a schedule entry.

This means that the occupation title is included in the particular category only if the accompanying industry entry on the schedule is the same as the one given. For example, the listing "Observer—U.S. Forest Service 027" in the category "025 Foresters and conservationists" means that this category included occupation returns of "Observer" only if the industry entry on the schedule return is "U.S. Forest Service." Code 027 is the industry code for U.S. Forest Service. In all like cases, the appropriate industry code will accompany the schedule entry.

5. Title followed by a class of worker abbreviation.

Other occupation lines are restricted as to the class of worker allowed. If the class of worker following an occupation title does not apply to an individual, that line cannot be used for the case. The classes of worker and their abbreviations as found in the Index follow.

Class of Worker	Abbreviation
Working for a private company, business or individual for wages, salary, or commission	PR
Working for Federal, State, or Local government	GOV
In own business, professional practice or farm (incorporated and not incorporated)	OWN
Without pay in a family business or farm	WP

An example of a class of worker restriction is the first title under "056 Personnel and labor relations workers" which is "Adjuster-arbitrator—PR."

6. Title followed by a class of worker and industry code.

Most of the occupation lines that have a class of worker restriction also have an industry restriction. Both must apply to the case being coded before the line can be used.

- E. "Any Not Listed Above"—As for industry there are occupation titles followed by "any not listed above" or "mfg, any not listed above." As pointed out in the description of the industry titles, when this phrase follows a title, reference must be made to the Alphabetical Index to know what lines precede this residual line which will reveal what is excluded from this line. Included under the "Engineer" caption head found in the list of titles for "013 Industrial engineer" are the lines, "Plant—Mfg. not listed above" and "Safety—Any not listed above."

- F. Some occupation titles are followed by industry codes that are not restrictions to the occupation, but aids to industry coding. These are of two types:

1. An industry code in parentheses indicates that the occupation is predominantly in the given industry. Therefore if the industry is not reported, and the occupation entry has an industry shown in parentheses, the coder is instructed to assign that industry to the case. An example of this is: "Certified accountant—(889)" found under "001 Accountants." Industry code 889 is for "Accounting, auditing, and bookkeeping services."

2. Other occupation lines are followed by an industry code in bold italics. This symbol is used when an occupation is restricted to one industry. For such cases, if a coder finds such an entry, and the industry was given any code other than the one in bold italics, or the industry was blank, the industry is to be changed to the code given. An example of this type of entry is "Bank accountant-707" found under "001 Accountants." The industry code 707 is for "Banking."

- G. At the end of the indented titles following a caption head, one may find the title N.s. followed by an industry restriction. This N.s. stands for not specified. Thus, the line Engineer, N.s.-227 found under "006 Aeronautical and astronautical engineers" means that an engineer who did not specify the particular kind of engineer and who is working in industry 227 is to be included in occupation 006.

Allocation Categories

The Classification Systems include allocation categories. In any census or sample survey some respondents do not report the requested information. In the 1970 census the coders did not enter any code for blank cases. In the computer processing if the case should have a code, an allocation code was assigned based on other reported characteristics. Allocation was done to the major group level; that is, there is an allocation category for each major group.

Census Coding and Instruction Service

The Bureau of the Census does industry and occupation coding for other government and private agencies on a fee basis to the extent its work requirements permit. Where special conditions require, coding instruction may be provided under similar arrangements. Inquiries about this service should be sent to Chief, Population Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION SYSTEM

Equivalent alphabetic codes follow some codes. Either code may be utilized, depending upon the processing method. Numbers in parentheses following the industry categories are the SIC definitions. "N.e.c." means "not elsewhere classified."
